

One Hundred Years Running on the Banks of the Red Cedar: A Social History of Michigan State University Cross Country

Table of Contents [March 2014 Working Draft/Subject to Change]

Green text denotes archival-based chapters, supplemented by survey data; whereas red text denotes survey-based chapters.

- 1 “The Athletic Wizard of M.A.C.”
Chester Brewer introduces cross country to Michigan Agricultural College
- 2 M.A.C. Responds to Local and Global Crisis: Brewer’s Departure and World War
The years leading up to and through WWI under coaches John Macklin and George Gauthier
- 3 From Slippery Footing to Good Team Chemistry: M.A.C./M.S.C. Roars through the 1920s
Five coaches in five years, then stability under AD Ralph Young & Coach Morton Mason
- 4 “One Swell Guy”: Lauren P. Brown Establishes a Cross Country Dynasty
Michigan State emerges as a national cross country powerhouse from 1931-1937
- 5 “Worked Out in Infinite Detail”: Lauren Brown Changes the Face of Intercollegiate Cross Country
The NCAA cross country championship is developed & hosted by Michigan State, 1938-1964
- 6 “Who Do You Love?” Understanding Running Origins and Identity
What drew MSU runners to this sport and what kept them involved?
- 7 “Hurry Back!” Early Years of the Karl Schlademan Dynasty, 1947-1952
Michigan State wins three national championships over six years
- 8 “I’ll See You at the Finish!” Later Years of the Karl Schlademan Dynasty, 1953-1957
Michigan State wins three more national championships over five years
- 9 “Go Green, Go White” Living and Running at Michigan State
Highlights, Lowlights, Sport Hierarchy, Social Worlds
- 10 “Reserved Gentleman:” The Fran Dittrich Years, 1958-1967
Two more NCAA championships and continued Big Ten dominance
- 11 “Tank Commander:” The Early Jim Gibbard Years, 1968-1976
Michigan State’s program remains feisty amidst turbulent times in America
- 12 A Good Thing Gets Better: Women’s Cross Country Arrives at MSU
AD Nell Jackson & Coaches Mark Pittman, Eric Zemper and John Goodridge establish a program, 1974-1981
- 13 Paradise Lost? The Later Jim Gibbard Years, 1977-1983
The men work to stay relevant
- 14 “Still ‘Brushing my Teeth!’” Running in Adulthood
Negotiating Life’s Challenges
- 15 Valleys and Peaks – The Women Build an Identity
The Karen Dennis, Sue Parks and Karen Lutzke Years, 1982-1997
- 16 The Long Road Back
Coach Jim Stintzi Stabilizes Michigan State’s Program, 1984-1997

- 17 Entering the Modern Era: Moving Toward a United Program
Coaches Jim Stintzi and Angela Goodman begin to work in concert, 1998-2003
- 18 Toward another Hundred Years' Running
Coach Walt Drenth establishes 21st Century Tradition, 2004-present
- 19 Passing It On
What our experiences contribute to understanding links between generations, running & health
- 20 Description of Research Methods: Human and Archival Resources
Instrumentation, data collection processes, response rates and patterns, & analytic techniques
- 21 Postscript: Over the Long Run
From the first photo of Henry Kennedy, past God-like gazes from above, to a last visit with Gibb